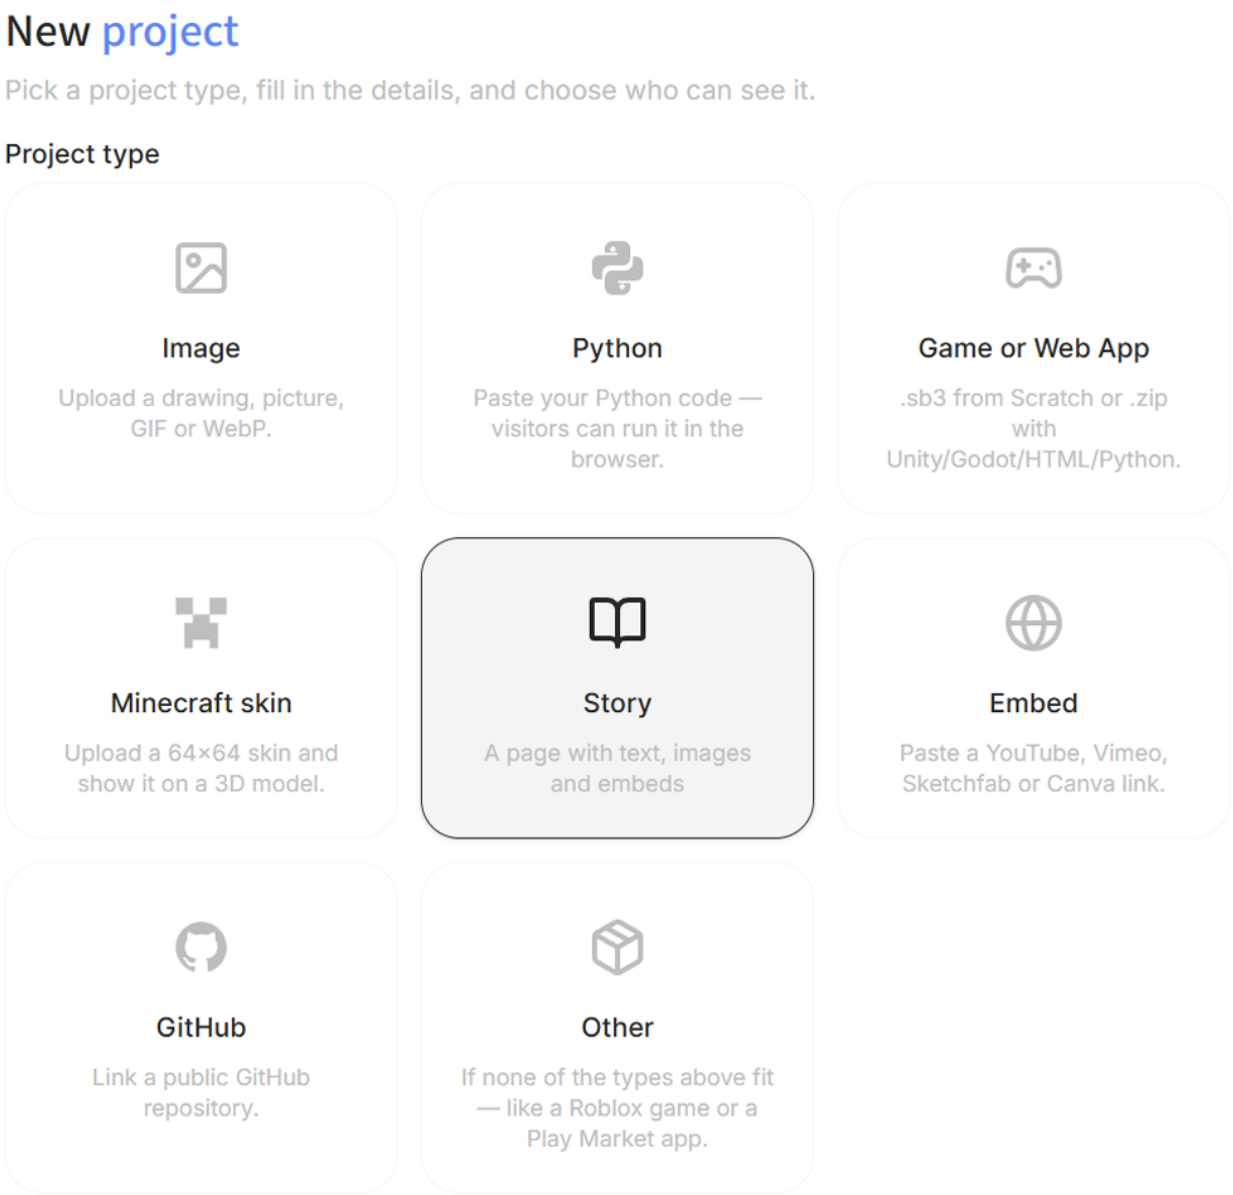
We added Story Projects!

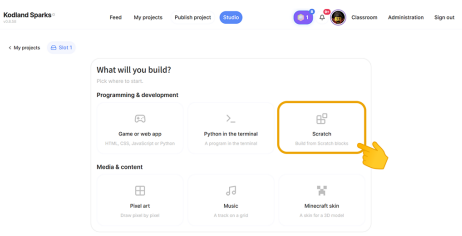
Now you can share your stories on Sparks!

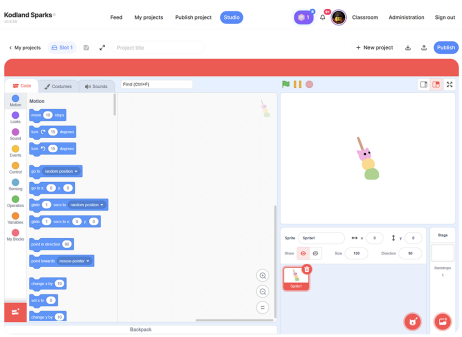
Hi, friends!

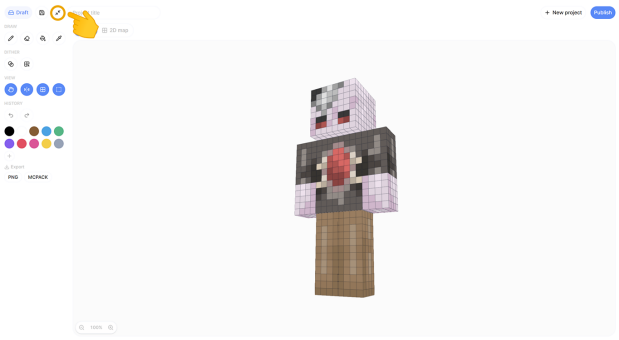
My name is Sasha Fomichenko, and I am building Sparks together with my LXD team. Today, we added a new type of project called Stories. You can use it to talk about things that inspire you, or to make your own portfolio page.

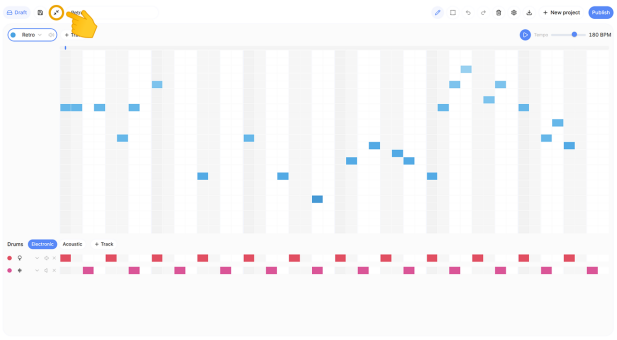


Also this week, we made it possible to work with Scratch projects in the Studio. We also made the platform a little easier to use! For example, you can now make the Studio full-screen so nothing distracts you while you are creating.









I never stop being amazed by your work! You have already shared over 4,000 projects. That is so impressive!

Please tell us what you think about Sparks here, and let us know what new things you would like us to add.